The Toronto Orthopedic Hospital has been organized for the purpose of providing suitable accommodation and complete equipment for the treatment of the lame, crippled and deformed, and to promote the study and teaching of Orthopedic Surgery. Although starting out with accommodation for a comparatively small number, the hospital is fully equipped for the treatment by the most modern methods of the class of patients for whose benefit it is intended. It is the only hospital in Canada devoted exclusively to this special work, though in England and the United States such hospitals have long been a well-recognized necessity. In opening the hospital the Trustees are aware that doubt may arise in some minds as to the need of such an institution. There is, however, general agreement among those most competent to judge that the whole field of orthopedic surgery cannot be adequately covered in general medical and surgical practice. The strongest proof that such cases have never yet been properly provided for in Canada is afforded by the number of lame, crippled and deformed persons, both children and adults, to be found in every community, who believe that their condition is not susceptible of cure, or even of improvement, because they have been often assured that nothing could be done to relieve them. In consequence these unfortunates have resigned themselves to the fate of remaining permanently disabled without hope of any relief. Perhaps the most striking examples of this class of cases are furnished by adults who have been born with club-feet, and who have been allowed to grow up with the deformity uncorrected; and by those who have been left disabled or distorted as a result of paralysis or chronic joint disease occurring in early life. Many of these persons are incredulous when assured that their condition may be at least greatly alleviated, and yet there is abundant evidence that the resources of modern orthopedic surgery are equal to the satisfactory correction of club-foot, irrespective of the age of the patient, and to the great improvement of many of the most distressing disabilities resulting from infantile paralysis and diseases and injuries of joints. But the best obtainable results can be secured only as a consequence of wide experience and by means of special equipment; the former is practically impossible without specializing this branch of surgery, and the latter is useless except in conjunction with the former. For while the aggregate number of orthopedic cases is large, relatively these cases are rare. Realizing this, many of the most accomplished physicians and surgeons refuse to treat orthopedic cases, preferring to refer their patients so afflicted to surgeons who give their whole attention to this work.

Besides primary operative surgical treatment, many of the cases require skilful after-treatment by means of mechanical appliances, and numerous cases need scientific mechanical treatment alone. But the full possibilities of mechanical treatment can be realized only by having the mechanics who make the appliances directly under the supervision of the surgeons who prescribe them, and in the Toronto Orthopedic Hospital this requirement is met by having all the apparatus required manufactured on the premises in well-equipped shops by mechanics who have been specially trained to this work, the surgeons assuming the responsibility of taking measurements, designing the appliances and supervising the manufacture.

Corrective Gymnastics.

There are certain conditions, such as lateral curvature of the spine, round shoulders, flat-foot, relaxation of joints from muscular weakness and paralysis, deformity and imperfect development of the chest due to rapid growth or resulting from disease in early life, that can be much more satisfactorily managed by developmental methods and corrective gymnastics than by any other plan of treatment that has yet been proposed. Until a few years ago these cases, if treated at all, had shoulder-straps, braces and various other mechanical devices prescribed for them; and even yet such means are often resorted to, owing to the fact that the attention of the profession has never yet been strongly enough directed to the possibilities of scientific gymnastic and developmental treatment. It is quite true, however, that the experience of the past decade has abundantly demonstrated the incomparable superiority, in suitable cases of the class just referred to, of the treatment by means of corrective gymnastics.

The final results of this method of treatment are often particularly gratifying because the benefit is not limited to the local condition: incidentally, the general health of the patient is often immensely improved by the course of physical training.

This, however, is a department of orthopedic practice which especially demands skill and experience, for this means of treatment, infinitely valuable in properly selected cases, is useless or even capable of harm if unwisely employed. To meet the requirements of this work the Toronto Orthopedic Hospital is provided with a gymnasium fitted up for this special purpose, and the best skilled assistance obtainable is employed.

Operating Room.

The operating room is so arranged as to have abundance of light, no matter how dull the day. It is furnished and equipped in such a manner as to meet fully the exacting demands of modern aseptic and antiseptic surgery.

ADMISSION OF PATIENTS.

The hospital is strictly undenominational. Persons of all ages who are lame, crippled or deformed, or suffering from any of the diseases which come within the province of orthopedic surgery, are eligible for admission to the hospital. Cases of a general medical or surgical character will not be received, as these are fully provided for by the various general hospitals.
Private Patients.

A number of private and semi-private rooms are available for patients who desire seclusion during treatment. The charge for these is from $1.00 to $2.00 per day. As it is intended to make the hospital as home-like as possible, arrangements can be made, when necessary, for mothers or guardians to remain with children occupying private rooms.

Public Patients.

The charge for public patients is 40 cents per day. The hospital is by no means a local institution for the benefit of Toronto residents only, but is open to all who need the service it can render, irrespective of place of residence. Any municipality, corporation, society or individual can send patients for treatment in the public wards by paying the above sum. It should be remembered, however, that this amount does not pay the actual cost of maintenance and nursing, consequently patients who desire the use of public beds must furnish satisfactory evidence that they are unable to pay for treatment.

Provision for the Destitute Poor.

It is the desire and intention of the Trustees that all the resources of the hospital shall be available to the poor as well as to those more fortunately circumstanced. To this end really destitute patients will be gladly received and treated with every kindness and consideration, absolutely free of expense for maintenance and nursing and professional services. In exceptional cases even necessary orthopedic appliances will be supplied free, a special fund having been established for this purpose. But in this connection it must be said that the frequency with which hospital benefits and free surgical skill are sought by persons quite competent to pay for the same, by persons who in many instances go to the hospitals simply to escape paying their regular medical adviser, has grown into a scandal of no small proportions. The Trustees are in possession of facts relating to a number of instances where well-to-do persons came to Toronto expecting to pay their way and prepared to do so, but who were persuaded by friends and others to avail themselves of the public wards of some one of the hospitals and receive free treatment. Almost every medical practitioner in the Dominion could relate similar instances of the abuse of public charity. The injustice of this is apparent when it is remembered how largely hospitals are supported by bequests and public subscriptions. Consequently, while prepared to receive the needy with open arms and a warm welcome, it is from the outset the intention of the Toronto Orthopedic Hospital to prevent, as far as possible, imposition upon its charitable resources. It is hoped that the profession and the public will co-operate with the Trustees and staff in restricting the charitable work of the hospital to the sufficiently large unfortunate class who are justly entitled to it.

Out-patient Department.

The Out-patient Department provides for the treatment of such cases among the worthy poor who apply to the hospital as can be properly dealt with outside of its wards. This department is open from 1 to 3 p.m. every Monday and Thursday.

The Consulting Staff.

Ailments other than orthopedic, from which patients who come to the hospital may happen to be suffering, will be treated only under the direction of the family physician or some member of the consulting staff, as the practice of the active surgical staff is limited strictly to orthopedic surgery.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS.

Many of the cases requiring orthopedic treatment occur among the very poor, whose insanitary environment and lack of sufficient and suitable nourishment are especially favorable to the development of rickety deformities and tubercular disease of the bones and joints. The treatment of these crippled and deformed patients, many of whom are children, is one of the worthiest charities to which money can be devoted. The struggle for existence is so keen that multitudes find it almost impossible to make a living, though sound of limb and heart and brain. If this be so, what prospect awaits the crippled and deformed, especially when their physical imperfections are made more intolerable by the added legacy of extreme poverty? To assist them in keeping the doors of the hospital open to all whose poverty makes it impossible for them to pay for the services they need, the Trustees will receive donations and bequests of any amount.
The money so contributed will be applied, when requested by the donor, to any of the following funds:

General Fund,
Building Fund,
Endowment Fund,
Orthopedic Appliance Fund.

The General Fund provides for such general expenses in carrying on the work of the hospital as are not fully met from other sources.

The Building Fund provides for improving, repairing and adding to the hospital buildings. As there are manifest advantages in conducting a special hospital of this kind in a group of small buildings, rather than in a large one, it is the intention of the Trustees to adopt the "Cottage plan" in regard to the hospital buildings, and to provide additional accommodation from time to time as it is required and as this fund will warrant.

It will be the privilege of any donor to the Building Fund of a sum of $4,000 or upwards to have the money applied in erecting a building to be known by any name chosen by the donor.

The amount required to provide and fully furnish a bed in the hospital is $50.00. Anyone donating this amount to this fund will have the privilege of naming the bed, the name to be permanently inscribed upon it.

The Endowment Fund provides for the maintenance of patients occupying certain beds to be set apart for the exclusive use of the deserving poor. Beds so endowed shall be suitably inscribed as desired by the donors. The amount required to endow a bed in perpetuity is $2,500. A donor shall have the right to send any poor patient to occupy such endowed bed free.
The Orthopedic Appliance Fund provides for the supply to patients, too poor to pay for them, of the various mechanical appliances required in the treatment of many cases of deformity and chronic joint disease.

The claims of this fund are worthy of strong presentation, and money contributed to it will be expended with the greatest care. With the assistance of an appliance costing a few dollars the lot of many a cripple could be made much more tolerable. Anyone contributing to this fund can rest assured that every dollar so given will be spent in supplying mechanical apparatus to someone absolutely too poor to buy it. And as the appliances are manufactured on the premises the cost will be simply the cost of production.

Donations to Ladies' Committee.

To further assist the charitable work of the hospital the Ladies' Committee will be glad to receive donations of provisions, bedding, linen, dishes, books and periodicals, toys, etc.
